This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTORY.

This investigation was begun to gratify a curiosity long had concerning the early history of our family, and to while away the weary weeks of convalescence from typhoid fever. Curiosity was amply gratified, and others becoming interested, it was urged that the facts be put briefly in print. Gradually the circle of interest widened, and ere we knew it the work assumed its present form. Other engagements unexpectedly permitting, it has been delayed from time to time, and we have done what we could. Others might have accomplished more—we only wish they had. Others could have done it better—if they would; but the lot fell on us. We have given the facts and figures as given to us. There will be errors; you will correct them. There are omissions; you will supply what is missing. Other generations are coming on; let them be added.

The name Baker, originating, as it does, from the trade, and having nearly the same pronunciation in several languages, is quite a common one. We may be sure that the founder of our name was a baker by trade, whether he was the "chief baker" whom Pharaoh hung, or some other. The English extraction of our ancestors is evident, were there no other proof, in the physical type of the earlier generations. From what we have seen and heard, we have formed the idea that a representative man of them would be tall, stalwart, inclining somewhat to corpulency with increasing years, having hair and a beard with a slight shade of red, eyes of gray or neutral tint, a complexion somewhat florid, and a general dignified appearance. Of course the physical features, as well as other characteristics, are now well nigh lost, as such, among the numerous intermarriages of later generations.

The exhortation of Edward (1) to his family, in his will, to "live peaceable and pious lives," most aptly describes the general character of his descendants. They are generally reliable, practical and useful members of society, serving faithfully in their sphere and generation, and training up children to fill their places. If few have risen to fill high public stations, it is also true that few have fallen below respectability. They have been cursed neither with poverty nor great riches, but have found that happy mean for which Agur prayed. Being law-abiding, peaceable citizens, we find no criminal among them. With rare exceptions they have been temperate, anti-slavery, and Republicans. Generally they have been orthodox church members, and we know of several instances in which the father has lived to see all of his large family members of the same church with himself. In creed they are mainly Congregational or Presbyterian. Most of them have been and are farmers, industriously cultivating their own soil, such as are called successful. Nor has success been wanting in other vocations. The family, home ties are quite strong, and we hear of little discord or alienation. On the whole, it would seem as though the promised blessing had descended to the latest generation. We have no armorial bearings to display. We have even omitted high-sounding titles, as such, except to mention their existence. We have tried impartially to characterize the family as we have learned it; not for the public, but for ourselves.

There are many thanks due those who have so ably assisted us, but they are too numerous to mention here. In particular we would mention, however, the labors of Hon. Osmyn Baker, of Northampton, Mass., who, some twenty years ago, or more, entered upon this same project, but was prevented by other engagements from carrying it through. His memoranda were quite valuable, giving many important facts, as well as furnishing the ground-work for further researches. Also, Mr. Thomas K. Baker, of Springfield, Mass., for his indefatigable zeal in procuring eastern genealogies, and bringing to light branches, trace of which was almost lost. There are also many (say 160) to whom no thanks are due, who have not so much as answered our letters of inquiry.

We now present the result of these labors, believing it will be interesting and profitable to young and old of present and future generations. We have found it especially so when studied in connection with American history. Let the reader follow these generations, associating with each the events of which they were the witnesses, and see them leaving the Old World for the New; their early struggles for a bare existence; follow them through their mastery over their savage foes; through their rough pioneering; through the dark days of the Revolution, and through their subsequent prosperity; note their joys and their trials, their hopes and their fears. Place yourself in their midst, and remark the quaint customs of the olden time; their manner of thought, of speech, of dress, of worship, of amusement, of life in all its every-day phases, and it will not only make a reality of history, but will introduce to you your ancestors as they really were. It will be seen that an individual is but a link in the chain of humanity; that a lifetime, at the longest, is as an hour on the dial; and that whatever we would that the generations past had done for us, it is our duty to do for those to come.

Virgil relates of the "pious Eneas," that when the flames were sweeping to destruction the ancient city of Troy, he shouldered his venerable old father, Anchises, and taking his little Inlus by the hand, he brought them to a place of safety without the walls. Even so would we rescue from oblivion the name and memory of our forefathers, not forgetting the little ones.. All these were honored in their generations. Many of them have left a name after them, and some there are who have no memorial—who are gone, and their children after them—but they are not forgotten. "Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name liveth forevermore." All honor, then, to the fathers who begat us. Bring filial reverence, pious gratitude, and lofty veneration to hallow their shrine, while we pay our vows to those who in turn shall succeed us. N. M. B.

EXPLANATORY.

In the arrangement of such a mass of names and dates in their proper connection, we have aimed to be as clear and unmistakable as possible, well-knowing that by far the greater part of those interested are wholly unused to deciphering genealogical tables. It is impossible to arrange it so that all may be seen at once, but time and patience will unravel it all. We have combined from other plans, and our own suggestions, the following arrangement, and have tried to adhere to it closely, unless otherwise noted.

The figures before CAPITALS, without brackets, from 1 upwards, are the serial numbers, in regular order. The like numbers, in brackets, wherever found, refer to that serial number in its order, where more will be found concerning the name joined with it.

The small exponential figure at the end of, and above each name, is the number of the generation, and will materially assist the reader to distinguish the children and grand-children, and degrees of relationship in many cases.

The names of heads of families in the series, are given in LARGE CAPITALS. The first name of the wives, and the last name of the husbands are given in SMALL CAPITALS. The names of their children are in italics, and their grand-children in the common type, unless otherwise noted.

The heads of families, as indicated by the serial number, are all Bakers by birth, unless the second name appears. Of course, in the female lines of descent, it will be necessary to watch closely the father's name.

We have endeavored to keep those families most closely related, as nearly together as possible, and, except in a few instances where convenience required it otherwise, have given all names in the order of age, so far as known.

It will be remembered that the serial figures in brackets are only for reference; as, when following the head of a family, it refers to the parent; when before a child's name, it refers to his place at the head of a family, there being a reference both ways; and unless so referred, the name does not appear elsewhere. To illustrate, turn to "9 JOHN^3 (7)." The (7) refers you to "7 Timothy^2 (1)," his father, which in turn refers you back to "1 Edward^1." Or, going forward, you find "9 JOHN^3 (7)" had a son marked "(37) John^{4}." Turn to 37 and you find 37 John^4 (9) with his family, and further references through the branch in like manner. A little practice will make it all quite plain.

We have used only few abbreviations, as b. born; d. died; m. married; res. resides and resided; ch. child or children; d. s. p. died without issue; ae. age; and others in common use. Had ch. means either that they have had children, or now have children. If there is some uncertainty at times, it was from the want of information on our part. We have given all that we know of the family, so far as it comes within the scope of the work. If any one has anything further, we should be glad to know of it.

The general divisions of the book, for convenience, are indicated by the running title at the top of the page. We have not been able to invent an index which would be simpler than the text itself.

Edward, embraces his descendants through the third generation, except his son John, and Thomas, son of Timothy^2.

Thomas, embraces all the descendants of Thomas son of Timothy^2.

Then follow the sons of John^3 (9) in order, viz: John(37); Noah, (47); Aaron (102); Elisha, (108); Elijah, (119); Stephen, (125).

John of Dedham, was the son of Edward (1) and this division gives his descendants.

BAKER GENEALOGY---EDWARD.

1. EDWARD BAKER[1] was the emigrant ancestor of the family whose genealogy is herein set forth. He was an Englishman, a farmer, and settled on the south side of "Baker's Hill," in Saugus, (then Lynn) Mass., in the year 1630. Undoubtedly he came hither in the large fleet under Gov. Winthrop, which sailed from England in April, and arrived at Boston and Salem in June and July, 1630. This fleet consisted of eleven vessels, and brought about 1700 colonists. "Some of them were from the western part of England, but the greater number from about London. On their arrival they began to make settlements in the pathless woods." Mr. Dudley says that some of them settled "upon the river of Saugus." Lynn was first settled only the previous year by five families, and this year received the large addition of fifty persons, with their families. Research has failed to bring to light anything concerning him prior to his arrival in Lynn. The hill[a] to which his name was first given, has known no other, and yet stands, "rock-ribbed and ancient," an enduring monument to the God-fearing, liberty-loving and hard-working pioneer who gave us this goodly heritage.

He was admitted a "Freeman"[b] March 14, 1638. All that is known of his wife is, that her name was JOAN, (Jane) and that she died April 9, 1693.

a. "Baker's Hill" may be seen near the Saugus branch of the Eastern Railroad, two or three miles from Lynn, towards Boston.

b. Before a man could vote or hold office, he must be made a "freeman," by the General or Quarterly Court. Prior to 1664, he must be a member of the Congregational Church. Then, by a Royal order, it was modified so that a certificate of their being correct in conduct and doctrine, from a clergyman, was sufficient to entitle them to these important privileges.

In 1657 he removed from Lynn to Northampton, Mass., only three years after the settlement of that town, where he had several grants of land from the town, purchased several lots besides,[c] held important town offices, and remained many years, "respected and influential." In later years he settled his sons, Joseph and Timothy, there, and returned to Lynn[d], where he died March 16, 1687.

Mr. Newhall[e] says, "The will of Mr. Baker is dated 16th October, 1685, and having previously provided for some of his children by deed, not all of them are named in it. He exhorts his family to live peaceable and pious lives, and desires for himself 'a decent funeral,[f] suitable to his rank and quality while living.'" His burial-place is unmarked and unknown. None of his lands are in the hands of his descendants. He had five sons and one daughter[g], viz:—

(2) Joseph[2] b. ———

(3) Mary[2] b. April 1, 1642.

(170) John[2] b. 1645.

(7) Timothy[2] b. 1647.

(4) Thomas[2] b. 1653.

(6) Edward[2] b. ———

c. Edward's estate in Northampton lay on the south side of Elm street, beginning near the junction of Prospect street with Elm, and extending westward. The evidence is satisfactory, though not strictly legal, that the original home lot and residence of Edward was on the south side of Elm street, opposite the junction of Prospect street. He left it to his son Timothy, who in turn left it to his son John. From a written statement made by Abner (43) in 1833, it appears that John left it to his son Stephen (125), who lived on the place indicated till he sold out and removed to Chesterfield. The same statement says "Edward (1) had the three corner lots next to the Clarks." That would make it probable that Edward and his sons, Joseph and Timothy, lived on the three corners at the junction of Prospect street with Elm street, and the elm standing in the triangle would be pre-eminently the "Baker Elm." "Baker's Hill," near Florence, and "Baker's Field," as laid down on the old maps, are both, probably, parts of the estate. We can find no documentary evidence in relation to it.

d. We are unable to account for his return to Lynn. His circumstances in Northampton seem far preferable every way.

e. History of Lynn, by Alonzo Lewis and James R. Newhall, 1865. It is a very interesting work, giving many curious details of early pioneer life. We were unable to find the Will, else we should insert it entire.

f. It may be of interest to explain, that prior to 1742, funeral expenses were often very large, there being furnished by the estate, mourning apparel, gold rings, gloves, wines and liquors in a very lavish style. In one instance 3000 pairs of gloves, and 200 gold rings were given away at one funeral. In 1742 a law was passed prohibiting all this, except six pairs of gloves to the bearers, and one pair to the minister.—History of Hadley, p. 248.

g. This is probably the order of their ages, from comparing the dates of marriages and births. Possibly he had another daughter, Elizabeth. The Lynn records say that "John Witt and Elizabeth Baker, was married the 14th day of January, 1676," and give their family. The presumption, however, is against it. Perhaps, also, there were other children who died young. Nearly all the town records of Lynn, for the first fifty years or more, having been lost, we have no means of knowing more than these. It may be that Edward was older than Thomas; he appears to be named before him in his father's will. It seems that the two latter never had much to do with the rest, and were lost sight of more than a hundred years ago. It was nearly so with John at Dedham, which was owing, probably, to the distance apart, and the difficulties of making journeys in those times.

2. JOSEPH[2] (1) b. ——, m. RUTH. dau. of Dea. William Holton, Feb. 5, 1662-3. He went with his father to Northampton in 1657, and settled there. He and his eldest son, Joseph, were killed by the Indians while at work in his field, ("Baker's Field") October 29, 1675. His children were Joseph[3], b. Jan. 20, 1664, and killed Oct. 29, 1675; Ruth[3], b. May 6, 1668, (m. Ebenezer, son of Alexander Alvord, of Windsor, in 1692, and had ch., Ebenezer[4], b. 1693, and d. young, Joseph[4], b. 1697, Mary[4], b. 1699, Noah[4], b. 1701, Ruth[3], d. March 4, 1706). Mary[3], b. Sept. 5, 1670. Samuel[3], b. Sept. 11, 1672; Joseph[3], b. Jan. 25, 1675-6[h], (posthumous). Nothing further is known of this family, and probably there are few, if any, descendants.

3. MARY[2], (1) b. April 1, 1642, d. Dec. 1, 1719, m. Nov. 7, 1662, George, son of William SUMNER, of Dorchester, Mass., (son of Roger, of Oxford, Eng.) They had ch., Mary[3], b. 1663, George[3], Samuel[3], William[3], Ebenezer[3], Edward[3], Joseph[3], and Benjamin[3]. Her hus. George lived in Milton, Mass., and was a deacon. He d. Dec. 11, 1715, ae. 81. Of the sons, Edward[3] had a son, Increase, who was the father of Gov. Increase Sumner, Gov. of Mass. from 1797 to 1799. The descendants of this family are quite numerous and honorable. Their genealogy may be found in full, in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, April No., 1854.

4. THOMAS[2] (1), b. 1653. For the curiosity of those who do not delve in musty records, we copy verbatim et literatim from the Lynn Records, Book I, page 2.

"Thomas Baker and Mary Lewis Was Married the 10th of Jully, 1689.

Thomas, Their Sonne, Was Born the 11th of August, 1692, and died the 2 of Sept. 1692.

Ruth, their Daughter, was born the 12th day of Jan., 1707-8.

John, their Son, was born ye 27 of August, 1710.

John, their Son, Departed this life the 4 of March, 1710-11."

Thus ends the record. Thomas[2] it seems settled in Lynn. On the 13th of Nov., 1675, he, with fourteen others, was drafted in Lynn, to serve in "King Philip's war." He was in the Narragansett fight, as appears from his affidavit[i]. He also killed two wolves Feb. 28, 1698, and received the bounty of 20 shillings each. He was also a member of "ye Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co.," in 1694. It is somewhat singular that no farther trace of his descendants can be found, except the children of his son Thomas.

5. THOMAS[3], (4) b. May 26, 1699. In the Lynn records among the "intentions of marriage," is "April 20, 1729, Thomas Baker and Rebecca Kelsey, both of Lynn."

"April 26, 1727, Mr. William Taylor, for and in behalf of the overseer and guardian of the said Rebecca Kelsey, forbids the banns betwixt Mr. Thomas Baker and Miss Rebecca Kelsey, which was entered April 20, 1729." Which shows that "the course of true love" didn't always "run smooth" in those days. They were equal to the emergency, however, for we find in Book 3, p. 191, that "Thomas Baker and Rebecca Kelsey were married May 10, 1729,

i. The following affidavit was signed and sworn to, by Thomas Baker, at Lynn, 8th of June, 1730, before Theophilus Burrill, J. P., and is recorded in Middlesex Registry. Andrew Townsend was drafted with him:—

"The deposition of Thomas Baker, of Lyn, in the county of Essex, aged about 77 years, Testifieth and saith:—That I, being well acquainted with one Andrew Townsend, of Lyn aforesaid, for more than 55 years since, and do certainly know and very well remember that the s^d Andrew Townsend was a soldier in the expedition to the Narragansett, under ye Command of Capt. Gardner, and that he was in ye s^d Narragansett fite, and in s^d fite rec'd a wound in or about the year 16 5."

by Mr. Joseph Whipple, minister of the gospel in New Hampshire, as by an attested copy appears." Their ch. were Rebecca, b. Feb. 28, 1729-30; John, b. Oct. 19, 1731; Thomas, b. Nov. 15, 1733, d. Dec. 3, 1733; Thomas, b. Dec. 25, 1734; John Kelsey, b. Jan. 16, 1736-7; Rebecca, b. Feb. 14, 1738-9; James, b. March 5, 1740-1; Abigail, b. March 2, 1742-3; Anna, b. March 23, 1745; William, b. April 9, 1747; Mary, b. April 28, 1749; Daniel, b. April 15, 1751; John, b. May 16, 1753. This is copied from the Lynn Records, and no further trace appears.

6. EDWARD[2] (1), b. ——, m. MARY, dau. of Capt. Thos. Marshall[j], of Lynn, April 7, 1685. He was made a "Freeman" in 1691; was an Ensign of Militia. His children were Mary, b. 24th April, 1686; Edward, b. 19th April, 1688, d. April 21, 1688; Sarah, b. 18th Jan., 1688-9, d. Jan. 29, 1688-9; Sarah, b. 13th Jan., 1689-90; Rebecca, b. 1st Oct., 1692; Edward, b. 4th Jan., 1694-5, d. 26th Jan., 1694-5; Edward, b. 16th July, 1696; Ruth, b 15th Aug., 1698, d. 3d Sept., 1698; Ruth, b. 7th July, 1699, d. 11th May, 1703; Elizabeth, b. 29th March, 1702, d. 7th May, 1709; Joseph, b. 9th Nov., 1704; Marshall, b. 5th March, 1707-8.

This information is all from the Lynn Records, and we can find nothing more[k]. From the deaths among the children, it looks as though the descendants were few, if any.

7. TIMOTHY[2], (1), b. 1647, through whom the greater part of this family, so far as known, are descended. He was settled by his father in Northampton, and lived on Elm street[l]. He

j. The Captain was "a venerable old hero of Cromwell's war," and kept the "Blew Anchor" for more than forty years, presiding with all the frankness and hospitality of "a fine old English gentleman."

k. In Lynn Records, Book II, "intentions of marriage" which were required to be published two or three weeks before marriage. We give those of the Bakers, hoping they may lead to further discoveries. All are at liberty to guess who they were. We don't know:
Jan. 21, 1727-8, John Potter and Mary Baker, both of Lynn.
Sept. 11, 1708, Ebenezer Baker, of Lynn, and Mrs. Anne Hall, of Boston.
March 2, 1714-15, John Baker, of Topsfield, and Anne Perkins, of Lynn.
Jan. 14, 1715-16, Nathaniel Potter and Rebecca Baker, both of Lynn.
Aug. 10, 1717, Ebenezer Baker, a stranger, and Mrs. Sarah Baker, of Lynn.
July 12, 1712, Thomas Cheever and Mrs. Mary Baker, both of Lynn.
Oct. 29, 1720, Theophilus Farrington and Hannah Baker, both of Lynn.
March 30, 1729, Hugh Floyd, of Boston, and Mary Baker, of Lynn.
Oct. 20, 1722, John Newhall, and Abigail Baker, both of Lynn.
It appears elsewhere that Ebenezer and Sarah Baker had a son, Hollister, born in 1718.

l. We presume the dwellers in Northampton have a more lively sense of gratitude toward that generation for planting those elm saplings, than for almost anything else. They are now magnificent old trees. One of the largest, standing at the junction of Prospect street, was pointed out as the "Baker Elm," which, tradition says, was planted by this Timothy Baker. It is a monument to his memory more enduring than stone, and has already outlived all other material traces of him.

was a leading character in town, often "selectman," often on important committees, both of town and church. He was dignified as "Mr."[m] from the first, afterwards becoming "Ensign," then "Lieutenant" of the "Train-band." He was made a Freeman in 1676. He m. (1) GRACE, dau. John Marsh, of Hadley, Mass., and grand-daughter of Gov. John Webster, of Conn., Jan. 16, 1672; had ch., Grace[3], b. 1673, d. Feb. 10, 1673; and Timothy[3], b. 1675, d. in infancy. His wife, GRACE, d. May 31, 1676. Soon after, he m. (2) Mrs. SARAH Atherton, wid. of Rev. Hope Atherton[n], of Hatfield, Mass., and dau. of "Lieut." (and Dea.) John Hollister, of Wethersfield. The final record is, "30 Aug., 1729, Lieut. Timothy Baker died." His wife, Sarah, d. Dec. 8, 1691. Both were probably buried in the Old Burying Ground, in the vicinity of "Shop Row," Northampton.

8. EDWARD[3], (7), b. Nov. 12, 1685, m. HANNAH Munn, of Springfield, Sept. 15, 1730. Had two daus., names unknown, and no sons. He resided at Northampton, and d. March 4, 1758, "having fully sustained the good standing of the family in his native town."

9. JOHN[3], (7), b. Feb. 3, 1680, m. June 1, 1709, REBECCA, (b. Nov. 22, 1687), dau. of Dea. John Clark, and grand-dau. of William Clark and Elder John Strong, of Northampton. He settled on the old homestead, on Elm street, in Northampton, and became one of the most influential men in town. He had an active, vigorous, and very religious cast of mind, such as characterized his father and grand-father. It is said that the Bakers and the Clarks,

m. At the time settlements began in New England, the people of Old England, below the nobility, baronets and knights, and above the plebians, were "Esquires," and "Gentlemen," and bore the title of "Master," or "Mister." In New England, only this class and those becoming dignitaries here, were allowed that title, and the people would have been shocked to hear a common man called "Mister." Times are changed since then. Military titles were especially in high repute, and the least was preferred to church or official titles. "Goodman" and "good-wife" designated common people in respectful manner.—Hist. of Hadley.

n. They were m. in 1674, and had 3 children. He was chaplain in Capt. Turner's Company, I think, and in the "Falls Fight" became separated from them, and suffered so much from exposure and hunger that he became partially deranged, and died soon after.

whose families were here connected, together maintained a regular family prayer meeting for a great number of years, until the families were scattered too widely. And very rarely indeed will you find so large a family, all of whom were so devotedly religious as were his children[o]. He was universally known as "Capt. John Baker." He d. Jan. 8, 1762. o. "Capt. John's" family were quite remarkable. The value of proper christian training and example is observable. All of them stood forth through life, as prominent christian men and women, and filled full their measure of usefulness. Physically, the men were tall and large. Truly, "there were giants in those days." They were from six feet upwards in height, large-framed and powerful. That they were healthy and vigorous is clear, from their longevity, the six brothers whose ages are known having averaged upwards of EIGHTY-TWO years each. "Aunt Sally," wife of Sydenham, (son of Stephen 125) relates to us her recollection, that "when she was 13 years of age, (1802) and living in Stephen's family, the four brothers, Noah, Aaron, Elisha and Elijah, together visited their brother Stephen, at Chesterfield, Mass. A lasting impression was made on her youthful mind by the circumstance that they all wore 'big, curly wigs,' and were such a jolly set of old men"—they being then from 70 to 83 years of age. "They were very affectionate towards each other, and very devoted in religion." They were used thus to visit each other frequently till death called them one by one away.

p. The N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register is published quarterly by the N. E. Historic Gealogical Society, at its office, 13 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass., at three dollars a year. It is devoted to just such labors as this.

This genealogy was also published in pamphlet form, and distributed. We are indebted to Hon. John Wentworth, of Chicago, Ill., for a copy; also, to Mr. John H. Wheeler, of Dover, N. H., for favors in this connection. We have been unable to find other members of the family, so as to have their genealogy posted up to date, but shall be glad to receive it at any time.

with his descendants, so far as known, up to 1851. We are at liberty to use this, and have condensed from it our account. He was known as "Capt. Baker." Being an adventurous character he had no "local habitation," except his father's in Northampton, till after marriage. He gives briefly a part of his story, in his petition to the General Court, as found in the archives of Massachusetts. This petition is dated at Brookfield, 6th of June, 1718, and represents "that he was a soldier under Capt. Welles, and was taken prisoner at the 'Deerfield massacre' in Feb., 1703-4; that he lost his arms and part of his clothes, and was carried captive to Canada; that he escaped from Montreal the next summer, in order to come home and give intelligence of an expedition against these towns, under Chevalier Boncour; that he was retaken, and the Indians made preparations to burn him alive, but he got out of their hands and ran to the house of one Le Clair, who ransomed him by advancing five pounds, which he promised to repay. He was put in irons by order of the Governor of Canada, and made a close prisoner four months. After which he was a prisoner at large, until he escaped a third time, and got safe to his country. He prayed for an allowance, and the General Court granted him ten pounds."

It is said that on this last escape, "he and his three companions were entirely without food, only such as they gathered from the desert through which they had to travel. They were on the point of giving up, when they prayed some deliverance might appear, and behold, a large bird, such as they had never before seen, fell before them. This they instantly seized, tore in pieces and ate without cooking."

About 1712, Capt. Baker, with a scouting party of thirty-four men, passed up Connecticut River and crossed to Pemigewasset River. He there discovered a party of Indians, whose Sachem was called Walternummus, (chief of the Pequakets) whom he attacked and destroyed. Capt. Baker and the Sachem leveled and discharged their guns at each other at the same instant. The Indian's ball grazed the Captain's left eyebrow, but did him no injury. The Captain's ball went through the breast of the Sachem; he leaped four or five feet high, and fell "stone dead." The Indians fled to the river; the Captain pursued and destroyed every one of them. The Captain lost no men. They plundered the wigwams of what furs they could carry away, and burned the rest. Capt. Baker took for his trophies the richly decorated blanket of the Sachem, his powder horn, and all his various trinkets, and they are still (1851) among his descendants. This took place at the confluence of a small river with the Pemigewasset, (between Plymouth and Campton) which has ever since had the name of "Baker's River." Capt. Baker and his men went to Boston and applied for the scalp bounty. On the 10th of June, 1712, the General Court allowed them 40 pounds, and wages from March 24 to May 16, 1712.

It was not long after this that he fell in with his future wife; and her experience was no less adventurous than his own. She was CHRISTINE, dau. of Richard Otis, of Dover, N. H., ancestor of the family from whose genealogy we extract this. On the night of the 27th of June, 1689, the Indians attacked the settlement at Dover, slaughtered 22, carried 29 captives to Canada, and burned most of the buildings. Richard Otis, with one son and one daughter, were killed, and his wife, with this daughter, then an infant of only three months, were carried to Canada and sold to the French. The priests took the daughter, baptized her Christine, and educated her in the Romish faith. She passed some time in a nunnery, not, however, taking the vail. At the age of 16 she married a Frenchman named Le Beau, and became the mother of two or three children. Her husband died about 1713. It was soon after 1714, that Capt. Baker was attached to a commission detailed by Gov. Dudley, under Col. John Stoddard and John Williams, for the purpose of negotiating for the release of prisoners, and to settle certain other matters, and went to Canada. He became deeply interested in Madame Le Beau, and overcoming a strong opposition on the part of her mother, (who had married again) the priests and others, he effected her release. But she was not allowed to take her children. She endeavored to get them afterward, but was unsuccessful. She returned with Col. Stoddard to Mass., renounced the Romish faith, and several months after (date not known) she married Capt. Baker. Though their first child was born in Northampton, they first settled in Brookfield, Mass., where they remained till 1731. There he took a prominent position, and was the first Representative in the General Court, from Brookfield, in 1719. In 1727 he was tried for blasphemy, before the Superior Court at Springfield. The charge against him was as follows:—"There being a discourse of God's having, in his Providence, put in Joseph Jennings, Esq., of Brookfield, a Justice of the Peace, Capt. Baker used the following words;—'If I had been with the Almighty, I would have taught him better.'" Verdict of the Jury—"Not guilty." This Jennings was Representative from Brookfield for some years, and perhaps a rival of the Captain. It seems his headstrong, daring spirit continued till middle life or after.

About 1731, misfortunes came. His health and strength failing, probably, (for he was "past his labor" in 1735), he sold his farm to a Col. Sheldon, considered good at the time, but he failed before paying. Being now bankrupt in strength and means, and with a family of seven children, mostly dependent upon him, we find him at Mendon in 1732; at Newport, R. I., in 1733; and removed to Dover, N. H., about 1735. The time of his death is not known, but it was prior to 1753. Tradition says he died of the "lethargy," at Roxbury, where he was on a visit to his cousins, the Sumners (vide 3). His wife petitioned the General Assembly in 1735, for permission to keep a public house on the "contry road from Dover Meeting House to Cocheco Boome," setting forth briefly her past and present circumstances; "that her losses are trebled on her; first, the loss of her house, well fitted and furnished, and the lands belonging to it; second, the loss of her New England substance in her last journey to Canada; and thirdly, the loss of her children. And now, your petitioner, having a large family to support, and by the changes and chances of fortune here is reduced to very low circumstances; and her husband is past his labour," etc. Her petition was granted, and she opened her "House of Entertainment," and kept it many years. She brought up and educated her family, and Bean enlisted in the French war, (and distinguished himself at the capture of Louisburg) and went to Dover as his rendezvous, where he met with Mary Baker, whose mother, Christine, it will be remembered, was keeping a hotel there about that time. After the war, business again called him through Dover, and he renewed the acquaintance, and ere long made her his wife. They resided at Epping until about 1771, when he went to Bow, N. H., where he was at the time of the Revolution. He was one of the first in that struggle for liberty. He was a Captain of Militia, and was one of the most active and efficient officers in obtaining recruits, and furnishing supplies for the army. He was with Stark at the battle of Bennington; also, with his sons Ebenezer and Benjamin at the capture of Burgoyne. The hardships and fatigue of that campaign laid the foundation of a disease of which he died the following summer, aged upwards of 50 years.

Mary, his wife, died in Conway, Feb. 6, 1826, lacking 10 days of being 100 years of age. She could see to thread a needle without glasses, to the last day of her life, and but for her wonderfully retentive memory, and that of her grand-son, Col. Benjamin Bean,

His experience was so interesting we can't omit it:—"On the morning of the Battle of Bunker Hill, he went to the hill at the command of Col. Prescott, to labor upon the breastwork, and was in the redoubt, slightly thrown up, commanded by Gen. Warren, where the enemy aimed his heaviest and most fatal guns. He had his gun shot off in his hand, and thirteen balls fired through his clothes, only one of which injured him, and that but slightly. In the scarcity of ammunition, he was engaged in throwing stones, until the enemy entered, and then he was pursued as he took a circuitous route to his pack, which he had stowed away in the morning. The pack, however, had been stolen during the engagement, and he contented himself with carrying from the hill his Captain's overcoat, which had been abandoned. He was at the capture of Burgoyne, and one of a scouting party that captured fifty-four Indians. He served eighteen or twenty months in all, at different times, but enlisted for longer periods, and was honorably discharged at the request of his father, that he might assist in taking care of the family, in the absence of his father and brother. Soon after the close of the war, and the death of his father, he removed, with his mother, from Bow, to Conway, N. H., where he died March 3, 1846, in his 91st year. His 8 children were,

q. Timothy (53) was one of the first three families to move into that part of the town known as "Pudding Hollow." It was so called from this fact. Timothy's wife and another woman were matched to determine which could make the largest "hasty pudding." It is said Mrs. Baker's was made in a five-pail kettle; at any rate, she came out triumphantly the "pudding head" of Hawley. Those were primitive days. Timothy used to go to Conway to mill, 15 miles, and carry his grist on his back. He was in the Revolutionary army several months, and meanwhile his wife lived in Conway. So much for being one of the "first settlers." 'Tis said he lived to see 130 of his own descendants.

r. Rufus came near cutting short his genealogy, as well as that of his father, when he was about 11. He was trying to draw a ball from a rifle which had been fixed as a bear trap, when it was accidentally discharged, taking off all the fingers of his right hand, passing through the clothes of his father and giving him a scratch on his side. He, however, became quite skillful in the use of his maimed hand.

108. ELISHA[4], (9) b. 1727, d. 1806, m. ———. Graduated at Yale College, in 1755, and settled as a physician in Canaan, Conn., and spent his life there in the practice. He was a leading member in the church and society, honored and respected by all. His grandson, Almerin Gillette, writes:—"I find on the fly leaf of his great Bible, which is in my possession, that he began to read it through in course the eighth time, in 1795, in the 68th year of his age." Nothing is known of his first wife. He m. a second wife, — Harris, of Springfield, Mass. We made an unsuccessful effort to have the Canaan Records searched. They would probably give some light if they were well kept. He had 4 ch. by first wife, viz:

t. Sarah. Elisha's first wife. was insane for nearly two months before she died, supposed to have been caused by over exertion. The case was quite a singular one. She conceived that she had committed "the unpardonable sin," and also that every one wished to poison her. She therefore refused all food and drinks, until she became so reduced, that no effort availed to save her life.

125. STEPHEN[u 4], (9) b. Nov. 19, 1731, m. Sep., 1758, Lucy King, dau. of Paul, of Northampton, and sister of Eleazer, Paul and Silas King, of Chesterfield, Mass. He res. in Northampton, on Elm street, opposite the junction of Prospect street. The house was burned several years ago, and a new one stands in its peace. In 1773, or 1783 (equally good authorities claim both dates,) he removed to Chesterfield, a mountain town about 14 miles westward, where he reared his large family. He took an active part in

u. Stephen, the last, but not the least of the sons of John (9) is described as a tall, straight man, six feet or more in stature, wearing a big sandy wig, with a long cue, high stockings, and tight breeches with knee buckles, and the rest of the costume peculiar to those days. He rather outdid his father, in having 8 sons and 1 daughter, who lived to an average age of over 76 years, and bore him 78 grand children. We are glad to say that the fashion of large families does not attach to the later generations. The 8 sons were tall, powerful men, averaging about six feet, and well adapted to pioneering. He lived on the place in Chesterfield, now owned by his grandson, William Baker, son of Oliver, about a mile west of the Hill. He was a thriving, industrious farmer, and strictly religious, bringing up his large family in the same path, so that probably nine-tenths of his descendants have been and are members of the church, (mostly Cong. and Presb.,) and in prosperous circumstances.

Not long after the close of the Revolution the tide of emigration set strongly toward "York State," and in 1801, Erastus, first taken by it, came with Stephen ("Ensign,") Cole, and — Rhoades, to LaFayette, Onondaga Co., N. Y., and settled on a tract on the hill just west of the village of L. There had been a few settlers in town previous to this, but the country was mainly an unbroken forest. Encouraged by his success Lemuel and Thomas followed in a year or two, settling on adjoining lands. The next year came Joseph, also locating on an adjoining tract, and, in 1805, Seth and Sydenham brought up the rear, buying of the others and adjoining lands and all went into pioneer life in earnest. The best part of those lands still remains in the hands of the Baker Family. The other two sons, Thaddeus and Oliver, remained in Chesterfield, but their descendants have all left there except William, son of Oliver.

He was generally known as "Major Baker," and it is said there was only one taller man in town He was a "Selectman" a great many years, and presided at the town meetings. There is a tradition oft repeated, of his going to Marietta, O., in 1788, with one Benjamin Tupper, a General in the Revolutionary war, who started a settlement there. The secret of this extraordinary journey, we are told, was that he was smitten with the charms of one of Gen. Tupper's daughters, but it was "love's labor lost." The journey was accomplished with an ox team, through an unbroken forest mainly, where they had to cut their own road, with wild beasts and hostile Indians to guard against. Several anecdotes are told wherein the courage and intrepidity of the "Major" appears to advantage. They are told in so many different ways however, that we cannot give the facts. He spent a year there and returned to Chesterfield "to roam no more." He had 7 ch., viz:—

v. The removal to New York of Stephen's sons was an important event with them, and under the circumstances, required no small amount of "pluck" and patient toiling. In those days Railroads and Canals were unknown. The State of New York was almost a boundless forest, with here and there a small settlement, or a log cabin, while the great West beyond, was almost unexplored. Even now it seems like romance, but we may be sure that in those days these were stubborn facts. It will not be uninteresting to later and future generations, to narrate as an instance, how a "moving west" was accomplished. This "change of base" was performed by Seth and his brother Sydenham, under circumstances quite favorable. We have an account of it from the widow of Sydenham, (165) "Aunt Sally," who is the only living representative that we know of, of the fifth generation.

In preparation for the journey, Seth bought at Chesterfield, a pair of horses and a new lumber wagon. The latter was properly covered in Emigrant style, and on the eventful morning, was duly loaded with the "chists," containing the clothing and such like, and the provisions cooked for the journey. On and among these were disposed the family, consisting of Seth and wife, their children, Quartus, Orril, Lewis, and Minerva, from 2 to 9 years of age, and Sally, (younger sister of Seth's wife, who married Sydenham 5 years after.) "Syd" was on hand with a hired horse team and wagon, which had been loaded with the household goods, and implements necessary to carry on business in their new forest home. Each had $100 safely "salted" about his person, and "pluck" for anything. So on that bright Wednesday morning in Sept., 1805, they bid adieu to "the cot of their fore-fathers," and followed the "star of Empire," on its westward way. Their wagons were all their "bed and board," till on Saturday night they hailed with joy the log cabin of their cousin Abner, (43), who had preceded them two years, and settled in Deerfield, Oneida Co., N. Y. Abner then had with him a family of ten or eleven children, from two years old upward, but opened wide his cabin door for these nine more; so there they rested over Sunday. "Aunt Sally" mentions with feeling, the recollection of two "savory cream pies," set forth at that Sunday's entertainment, a luxury beyond comparison. Moving again Monday morning, they reached LaFayette Tuesday night, having made the trip in seven days.

The whole party went into the cabin with Joseph (153), and in eight weeks, Seth, with an addition of one to his family, moved into a new cabin of his own. "Syd" returned with the hired team, and came on again. Seth bought 100 acres, "Syd" working for him till he married, and the pioneer's work went forward. He subsequently increased this to over 500 acres, all valuable land. He also raised a large family, all of whom are settled in LaFayette, except Harriet, and all are living who reached maturity, except Quartus. Morris retains the old homestead.

w. As the Bakers were somewhat partial to the Bryant family, there having been seven intermarriages, we subjoin a brief sketch. This family may have descended from a John Bryant of Scituate, Mass., 1639. We have no particular reason for believing it, except that the first Bryant who came to Chesterfield, Mass., came from Scituate with his son Benjamin, about 1762.—The father perished in the snow. Benjamin wintered in Northampton for two or three years, and was constable in 1762. His 9 children were, Asahel (who m. a Warren, sister of Elis' wife) and had 3 sons and 4 daus., of whom Eunice, m. Stephen, (129).

George, who seems to have known some misfortune, had no fixed residence, and died unmarried, in middle life.

Abner, who moved to Buffalo, N. Y., in 1818, having just married Anne Fowle, of Northampton, Mass. There he was Deacon N. S. Presbyterian Church; nurseryman. Had 8 children, 5 daughters and 3 sons. He died 1853, aged 65, and she died 1866, aged 79. Four of the daughters are dead. The fifth, Lucy, m. E. C. Walker, Esq., of Detroit Mich. Of the 3 sons, Isaac F. lives Lancaster, N. Y. Henry C. resides in Buffalo, and Abner H. is a Commission Merchant in Wilmington, Del.

Joseph, who went to Ohio, and d. there unm.

Eunice, m. Perez Graves, of Northampton. (See 1'5.)

Esther, m. Joshua Maxwell, and had 3 sons and 1 daughter. Two of the sons d. without ch., and Wyman had 3 sons living in the vicinity of Geneva, N. Y. The dau, m. Rev. Medad Pomeroy, who preached in Cayuga 20 years, and had 9 ch.

Rukesby, m. Southard Cole, and had quite a family.

Another Dau., m. Jacobs, and had a family.

"In early youth he made a profession of his faith in Christ, and fitted for the Freshman Class at Cortland Academy, Homer, N. Y. Four years in College developed gifts of a high order, and made him very dear to his classmates and comrades. His preference for rhetorical studies was decided, and in those the palm of excellence was as easily won as it was gracefully worn. His Clark Prize Oration, on 'Genius and Labor,' showed a subtle power of analysis and a vigorous wealth of language and illustration that delighted all, while it surprised those who best knew his powers. In his daily College life, there was a native courtesy of speech and action, a tenderness of humor, an oblivion of self, that recalled the best traits in the character of Charles Lamb. Physically vigorous, elastic, active, athletic, a leader in all manly sports; in his temperament uncommonly cheerful, bright, hopeful; in all his views of life, kindly, charitable and true, with a future full of good promise he gave every indication of a long, happy and useful life. He went home after graduation, and there in his bright young years was stricken with fever and died in his father's house, Aug. 27, 1866."

160. LEMUEL[5], (125) b. about 1780, m. Oct. 30, 1799, ESTHER Pomeroy, of Northampton, Mass. He rem. to LaFayette, N. Y. with the other brothers, about 1802 or 1803. He stayed there several years, when he rem. to "the west," known as "Holland Purchase." Several years later he went from there to Terre Haute, Ind., where he remained till his family were grown up and married, so far as known. From thence, he, with a part or all of his family, went to Texas and farmed on an extensive scale. From that point little or nothing is known of them, except the information given by a letter sent by some one of the family, to the relatives here, setting forth the fate of the son and son-in-law[x]. His ch., from general recollection, were 8 in number, and the following is all we know about them:—

Almira[6], m. — Soule.

Julia[6], m. — Duncan.

Lucy[6], d. young.

Rodney[6], and an Infant[6].

Horatio[6].

Eliza[6], d. young.

x. Lemuel seems to have had a large portion of an adventurous spirit, which occasionally crops out in the family. We can find no trace now of any descendants, although there may be some. The letter referred to, was passed around among the relatives at the time, but is now lost. From those who read it I gather this statement: That at the time of this occurrence, the son (probably Horatio,) and the son-in-law (Duncan), were 22 and 24 years of age. That on their Texan farm, the son and Duncan went on horseback after the cows, taking their rifles; that the Indians came on their trail, and cornered them in a ravine, when they backed up against the rocks, where the Indians must attack them in front, and evidently resolved to sell their lives as dearly as possible. They were both large, powerful, athletic men, and in the vigor of manhood. From their position when found, it was evident they had fought desperately, having spent their ammunition and bent and broken their guns to pieces in a hand to hand conflict. When found, both were dead, Duncan probably having fallen early in the fight, and the son pierced all over with arrows, lying where he had fallen, with six or seven dead Indians around him. Duncan was scalped, but the son's head was skinned, as was their practice on killing a "brave."

OTHER BAKER FAMILIES.

In our researches we have found that the Bakers are not all related, as many have supposed. If there were "three brothers" of the original settlers as tradition hath it, we are unable to select. We take from "Savage's Genealogical Dictionary" the most prominent names of those Bakers who appear to have emigrated hither early. The work referred to, attempts to give their descendants for 3 generations, so far as known.

Cornelius Baker, of Salem, Mass., m. 1658, Hannah Woodbury.

Alexander, ropemaker, Boston, 1635, aged 28. Had 11 ch.

Francis, Boston, 1635, aged 24, m. and had several ch.

Daniel, Yarmouth, (son of Francis,) m. 1674, Eliza Chase.

Ebenezer, Salem, soldier in Gardner's Co., 1675.

Jeffrey, Windsor, m. 1642, Joan Rockwell; several ch.

John, Ipswich, 1634. Had ch. See Salem records.

John, Woburn, m. 1644, Susanna Martin.

John, Boston, 1644. blacksmith.

John, Hartford, 1665.

Nathaniel, Hingham, 1635, and his brother.

Nicholas, Hingham, Freem., 1636. rem to Scituate.

Nathaniel, Watertown, Mass., proprietor, 1636–7, and several other Bakers in Waltham, mentioned in Bond's History of Watertown.

Richard, Dorchester, 1639.

Mr. Edmund J. Baker, of Milton, Mass., has collected a complete genealogy of Richard's descendants in the male line, which he intends, sometime, to publish.

Robert, Roxbury. Samuel, Lynn, 1635. Samuel, Marshfield. Thomas, Topfield, Freem., 1665. William, Charlestown, 1693. William, Boston, m. 1651, and others of later dates, who may be descendants of those mentioned.

In our random inquiries we have chanced upon the descendants of Thomas, of Milford, 1639, and East Hampton, L. I., 1650, in several instances. We should think the family quite numerous and respectable. Their genealogy has been so well preserved in several of its branches. that it might be easily collected. We return thanks for answers to inquiries in that branch to Aaron Y. Baker, Hammondsport, N. Y.; Frank Baker, Tiffin, O.; Albert L. Baker, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Rosalie M. Baker, Easthampton, N. Y.; and others.

We find in Bakersfield, Vt., a large family of Bakers descended from one Samuel, of Westboro, through his son Samuel, of Bolton, Mass., b. 1753. We can discover no connecting link; are obliged to Eunice E. Baker, of Bakersfield, Vt., for the information.

We are unable to trace any connection with the families of the late Hon. Daniel C. Baker, of Lynn, Mass.; or of William K. Baker, Esq., of Springfield, Mass., whose ancestors were from Norwich, Conn, and originally from Boston; or of Ashbil Baker, of Hawley, Mass., and a number of others to whom we are obliged for information respecting their families.

RELATIONSHIP.

For the information of those who care to puzzle their brains on this point, we give on the authority of the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, the names of various degrees of relationship, omitting those which are well known.

Cousins.—The children of brothers and sisters are cousins to each other; of half brothers and half sisters are half cousins.

Second Cousins.—The children of cousins are 2d cousins to each other; of 2d cousins, are 3d cousins, and so on in the same generations.

Nephews and Nieces are the children of ones brother and sister.

Cousin Nephews and Nieces are the children of ones cousins, and so on for 2d cousin nephews, &c. The same children are grand nephews of the brothers and sisters one generation back.

Great Uncle and Great Aunt, the brother and sister of ones grandfather or grandmother, and so on, by adding "great" for each generation.

Great Uncle Nephews, &c.—The children of your great-uncle are great-uncle nephews to you, or the same children are cousins to your father.

Grandfathers and Grandsons are expressed by adding "great" for each farther remove.

This will be enough to satisfy any one, if it is studied through.

DIRECTIONS.

The following blank pages were inserted for use. Enter upon them the genealogy of your family in full, if not already given, in the same form as that of the printed pages, being very careful to refer by figures back and forth, to prevent mistakes, leaving space enough beneath each to contain the names and births of the family. Write, also, the genealogies of other branches of the family, as you may know of them, if there is room. In short, make it a general record of family genealogies, and of your own in particular. By carefully pursuing this course the book in a few years will be a highly-prized heirloom by your descendants.

This subject is every year receiving increased attention, and we are already looking forward to the time—it may be ten, twenty, or even fifty years hence, —when some one shall prepare a work more complete than this,—fuller details, in richer in incidents, and more interesting in brief biographical sketches. We believe it will be done at some time, and then these and additional pages will be rich in material for the work. In anticipation, therefore, of such an event, we offer to act as clerk and general depository for all the genealogical matters of the family, and do earnestly request all members of the family, of whatever branch, to send to our address now, and at any time hereafter, genealogies, sketches, obituaries, or anything of interest to the family. We will endeavor to arrange and preserve it for future generations. We may not live to carry out this plan; but we will provide successors who will take charge of it in our name, until further notice. Then at any time when one is found who can, and will, prepare and publish a complete work, the whole will be cheerfully placed in his charge.

Address hereafter,

NELSON M. BAKER,
La Fayette, Onondaga Co., N. Y.

The Publisher has taken quite a number of copies of this work on his own account, for the accommodation of those who have failed to order them in advance. These he will send prepaid at $3.00 each. Address as above.
